When out on the lawn there arose a strange sound,
Marley sprang from his bed and looked all around.

Away to the window
he ran like a flash,
pressing his nose to the glass
with his paws on the sash.
When what to his wondering eyes should fly up
but a miniature sleigh and eight reindeer pups!

Leaping through air so lively and fast,
Marley knew in a moment
it was Santa 'Paws at last!

More rapid than squirrels,
the reindeer pups came,
and Santa 'Paws barked
each pup by their name:

Greetings from Minneapolis

"Now, 'Fido!
'Now, 'Rover!
'Now, Happy and Holly!

On, 'Snowball! On, 'Twinkle!
On, Jingle and Jolly!

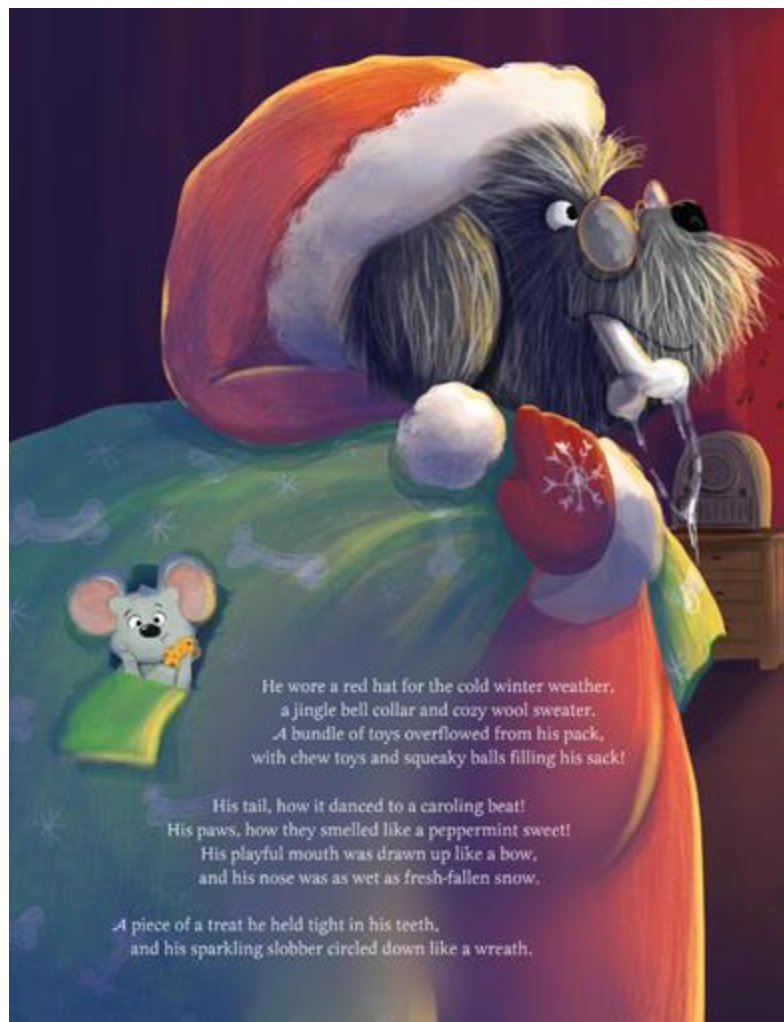

To the top of the roof! To the top of the wall!
'Now zoom away! 'Race away! 'Dash away all!"

As snowflakes that before the strong wind fly,
when they meet with a gust, mount to the sky,
so up to the housetop the reindeer pups flew with the sleigh full of toys and Santa Paws, too.

And then, in a twinkling, Marley heard from the roof
the reindeer pups' stomping and sharp little WOOFES!
As they drew in their heads and were turning around,
down the chimney Santa Paws came with a bound.

He wore a red hat for the cold winter weather,
a jingle bell collar and cozy wool sweater.
A bundle of toys overflowed from his pack,
with chew toys and squeaky balls filling his sack!

His tail, how it danced to a caroling beat!
His paws, how they smelled like a peppermint sweet!
His playful mouth was drawn up like a bow,
and his nose was as wet as fresh-fallen snow.

A piece of a treat he held tight in his teeth,
and his sparkling slobber circled down like a wreath.

Watching it all, Marley thought,
What a treat! What yummy surprises will there be to eat?
Sneaky and crouching, Marley peeked 'round the tree,
but his tail brushed an ornament, nearly knocking it free!

Marley dropped to the ground but kept one eye open to peek up at Santa Paws with awe-struck devotion.

It's hard, pretending to sleep and keep silent, when your paws tap, tap, tap on the floor with excitement!

Santa Paws pranced around, leaving gifts by the tree—oodles of goodies and dog treats to see.

A dog bed, a ball, and a squeaky bone, too,
plus a festive sweater and more bones to chew!

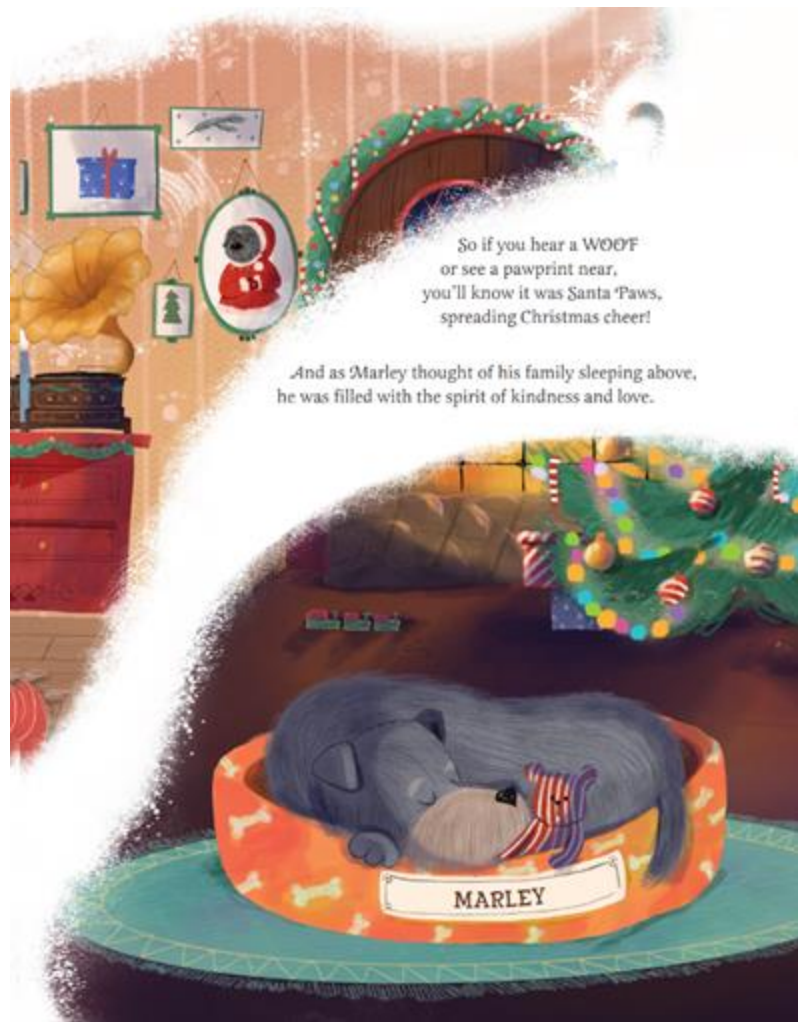

Then Santa Paws turned with a flap of his ear to wink right at Marley, who crouched very near.
And with a wag of his tail and a twitch of his nose,
Santa Paws floated up—up the chimney he rose!

When his sleigh ride was done, flying far and wide,
 Santa Paws returned home to the warmth inside.
 He put on his slippers and sat in his chair, as "Bark the Halls"
 music floated all through the air.

'Dear Macy, 'Peter, 'Elizabeth, 'Mom, 'Dad and 'Grandpa,

Merry 'Barkmas to you, my favorite crew!
Let's revel in joys, both simple and true:
a nap by the fire, romps in the snow,
and time with loved ones that make our hearts grow.

Here's to sniffing out fun and fetching delight.
I'm wishing you a Christmas that's merry and bright!

RUFF!
Love,
Marley
